

Building Self Esteem & Public Awareness for Those Who Feel Different

Participant Code of Conduct

Boldly Me has implemented the following Code of Conduct for the important message it holds about the proper role of participants. Participants should read, understand and sign this form prior to participating in Boldly Me classes or events. Anyone guilty of improper conduct at any event or class will be asked to leave and be suspended from future activities.

6 Core Principles

The highest potential of happiness is achieved when a person reflects six core principles. The essential elements of character-building, ethics, and self-esteem are embodied in the following principles.

- Trustworthiness
- Responsibility
- Caring
- Respect
- Fairness
- Good Citizenship

I therefore agree:

1. To participate and to have fun in all activities.
2. To inform the instructor of any behavioral, physical disabilities or ailments that may affect the safety of myself and others.
3. To learn the rules of the event and the policies of Boldly Me.
4. To be a positive role model by showing respect and courtesy, demonstrating positive support for others regardless of race, creed, color, sex, or ability.
5. To discourage any behaviors or practices that would endanger the health and well-being of others.
6. To do my best and praise myself and others for participating fairly, trying hard, and feeling like a winner ever time.
7. To refrain from ridiculing or yelling at others or myself for making a mistake.
8. To emphasize skill development, practices, and how they benefit myself and others.
9. To respect the officials and their authority during any event. I will refrain from teaching my child or other participants during class, unless I am one of the official teachers.
10. To keep events free from drugs, tobacco, and alcohol.
